BACKGROUND INFORMATION

Cell Phones for Soldiers was the brainstorm of teenagers Brittany and Robbie Bergquist of Norwell, Massachusetts. They were disturbed after hearing a news story about an American soldier in Iraq with a staggering phone bill. Brittany and Robbie started Cell Phones for Soldiers with their snack money, and have recruited sponsors and cell phone companies to help. The website has details for those who would like to make cash donations, as well as stories of the soldiers and their families who have received phone cards.
